Introduction

Believe New York (BNY) is a grassroots 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization founded in February 2021 by a native New Yorker in the aftermath of the COVID-19 pandemic. What started as a small community effort has grown into a vibrant organization that serves thousands of individuals and families each year. With over 100 years of combined nonprofit and community program experience, 65+ active volunteers, and an engaged donor base, BNY is committed to supporting people in need.

Each year, we build on our humble foundation by expanding our outreach, refining our services, and enhancing our approach to better meet the needs of the marginalized communities we serve. As we reflect on our journey and look to the future, we remain dedicated to empowering individuals and families facing adversity and creating opportunities for them to survive and thrive across the New York City metro area and beyond.

Letter from our Director

Dear Colleagues, Friends, Family, & Supporters:

Perhaps I say this every year, but 2024 was Believe's best year yet, and I am so eager for what is to come for us. This year was a year of firsts, and thank you to all who helped make this possible! Additionally, we focused on steady growth and making strategic decisions and partnerships, positioning us to scale our programs and our impact!

As we reflect on our milestones and the exciting direction for 2025, I must take a moment to address the challenges ahead. There's no doubt that the coming year will be difficult and uncertain for a majority of the communities we serve. In these times, our mission becomes even more vital: to support one another, create spaces for healing, and provide access to resources that empower individuals to improve their circumstances and safeguard their well-being.

I am incredibly proud of what Believe has accomplished and what we continue to grow into. Our doors remain open to all—regardless of background, religion, race, ethnicity, sex, gender, documentation status, age, disability, or the hardships they face. We are here for anyone who needs support and community. I believe this is more critical now than ever, especially in the wake of the 2024 election and its impact on not only our team and our volunteers, but also those we serve.

We are not going anywhere! In 2024, we saw a remarkable 22% increase in new clients accessing our core services (GetHelp and Open Space)—a testament to the growing need for support in our community. I am especially proud of the success of our flagship program, GetHelp. An extraordinary 90.3% of active clients reported tangible improvements in their hardships. Through this program, clients have secured affordable housing, safety from domestic abuse, mental health care, new educational and employment opportunities, reliable food support, and affordable family care.

While we celebrate these achievements, we are also preparing to evolve. In 2025, we will pivot toward increasing our reach and enhancing our core services, leveraging a collective impact approach to create even greater outcomes for those we serve. In other words, we are committed to strengthening collaborations, forging new partnerships, and streamlining resource sharing to ensure that our community has the widest access to support. By optimizing our services and collaborations, we aim to expand our reach and serve even more individuals and families in need.

Believe New York

In 2024, we also hosted our very first resource fair in response to many requests from our clients, and it was a resounding success! Our first-ever Mental Health Resource Fair brought together 22 service providers and welcomed over 120 attendees! Inspired by the incredible turnout and positive feedback, we are proud to announce that we will continue hosting mental health resource fairs and other similar resource fairs for our community. These fairs are a key to our commitment to streamlining resource sharing and ensuring that individuals and families have easier access to the services they need.

Our annual Thanksgiving meal and clothing handout, along with our Holiday Gift Drive, were standout events this past year as well -- both serving more than triple the amount we served in years prior. Together, these efforts served over 500 individuals, with the Holiday Gift Drive being especially significant! For the first time, we provided gifts to children living in poverty across all five boroughs of New York City. This was made possible through incredible partnerships, notably, Sprout Society, a Brooklyn-based mental health focused nonprofit. We are so excited about the opportunity to strengthen and expand this partnership to benefit even more New Yorkers in the year ahead!

This year also marked a major milestone for Believe with the launch of our first international project in Kenya. Partnering with local organizations and nonprofits at the United Nations, we began working in Kakamega, a rural area with starkly different resource access compared to urban centers like NYC. I had the privilege of seeing these differences firsthand, which deepened my understanding of the unique challenges faced by rural populations worldwide. These insights have already begun to inform our approach, and I look forward to sharing what we've learned in the coming year.

Altogether, I am filled with gratitude for the progress we've made and the lives we've touched. I look forward to continuing to grow, innovate, and serve our community with compassion and dedication. Here's to building a brighter future—one step, one connection, and one life at a time.

With determination, love, and gratitude,

Nicole K. Bulanchuk
Founder and Executive Director

About Us

Mission

Believe New York is committed to supporting all individuals and families facing adversities, regardless of their identity, background, or situation (e.g., age, sex, ethnicity, race, gender, religion, sexual orientation, socioeconomic status, or disability). Our mission is to create a compassionate, inclusive society where every person has the opportunity to heal, thrive, and achieve their full potential.

Vision

We envision a world where all in need can achieve lasting well-being, economic stability, and equitable access to resources. Through meaningful change, we strive to build stronger, more resilient communities where everyone can succeed.

Populations Served

At Believe New York, we are committed to supporting a diverse community of individuals, each facing unique challenges. While our outreach primarily targets NYC, we serve anyone across the metro area and all people who need help. We provide tailored services that address the distinct circumstances of those we serve, ensuring that everyone has access to the help they need. Our platform is open to all, with a particular focus on marginalized individuals experiencing poverty, mental illness, domestic violence, discrimination, unemployment, disability, loss, trauma, and other hardships that impact their well-being.

Our Team

We are a 100% volunteer-run nonprofit organization, relying on the dedication and impact of about 65 volunteers from the community and over 12K hours of service in 2024 alone.

Our Client Advocates work directly with individuals and families through our GetHelp and Open Space programs, ensuring they receive the resources and support needed to overcome their concerns and thrive.

Our Community Advocates lead outreach efforts by engaging with the public through events, tabling, distributing business cards and flyers, fostering awareness, and encouraging individual growth and community improvements.

Our Board of Directors oversee strategic planning, organizational resources, and community partnership development.

Our Leadership Team manages day-to-day operations of our programs, projects, research, events, and volunteers.

Services & Programs

GetHelp

Resource connection and navigation support services in key areas affecting well-being, including housing, food, mental health care, and more, ensuring individuals can access the support they need. Available via text, call, email, and Google Meet (audio only).

The Open Space

Free virtual platform where anyone can talk and vent to one of our trained, empathetic, compassionate, and culturally competent Client Advocates. Offers a safe space for emotional support while navigating GetHelp resources. Ongoing sessions encouraged!

Projects & Events

In addition to our core programs, we extend our impact through other international and local projects, and events, e.g., resource fairs, meal and clothing handouts, neighborhood clean-ups, educational workshops, and more, sometimes by request!

Research & Evaluation

Our Research team ensures we continuously assess our program and project's impact, community needs, and trends in the nonprofit sector to enhance our services.

Food First's Final Year of Service

Since we started Food First during the lockdowns of COVID-19 in 2020, the program fought food insecurity by providing access to food, clothing, and essential supplies, complementing our other services. Our Community Advocates personally delivered these items across the NYC Metro area, ensuring dignity and respect to all who needed us.

The program primarily supported families who had exhausted SNAP/WIC benefits, lacked access to food pantries, or were awaiting food assistance. Despite efforts to secure in-kind donations, budget constraints made continuation unsustainable.

July 2024 marked our final delivery.
In its 4 years we served:

- 16K+ items
- 400+ people, including deliveries to numerous shelters, centers, pantries, and community mutual aids by request
- 80% families of color across the 5 NYC boroughs

Since we closed this program, we have leveraged our community networks to connect clients with alternative resources, including community fridges, pantries, and larger organizations offering meal deliveries. Our commitment to addressing hunger remains strong through these ongoing efforts.

Believe Goes International!

In March 2024, Believe partnered with Give Them a Hand Foundation, World Citizens Network, and Good Health Community Programmes to present during the NGO CSW Forum at the 68th Session of the Commission on the Status of Women on our commitment to rural women in Kakamega, Kenya. As part of our first international project, we sent numerous care packages with a total of 2K condoms we secured from NYS Department of Health, 850 high-calorie granola bars, and global mental health resources to women and girls in Kenya. We remain focused on long term health and economic empowerment for women in this area.

Client Stories

Client from Brooklyn, NY

I was in a dark time when I came across Believe New York. I will never forget it. My aunt was hospitalized for the umpteenth time, and I had to house sit for her while she laid in a hospital bed for two weeks. I had to open up her mail and let her know what was going on and I had to do a court case for her on her home phone. While being there for two weeks I noticed her bills were piling up, but very tragically her Con Edison bill was in the thousands, and I knew at that moment I needed help. I reached out to multiple organizations, specifically ones who specialized in helping seniors (my aunt is 88), and Believe was one of those organizations. They helped with supplies, connected me with resources, navigated the back and forth with Con Edison, and helped with her health insurance in getting the right doctors she needed who could do home visits, since she's bed-bound. Believe New York was and is truly a LIFESAVER. My aunt is doing much better now and we have exited out of Believe New York's client base. Highly recommended though and forever grateful!

Client from Queens, NY

When I reached out to Believe New York I honestly thought it would be a waste of time because I was so hopeless. Everyone had left me. They had a lot of appointments available on the website, and I almost didn't show up! I'm so glad I did because I met the kindest person who cares so much for me and wants me to get better. I've been through abuse, no food, living in the street and not being able to take care of my daughter... Believe New York was there for me and gave me support and someone to lean on when I had no one else in the world. [My Client Advocate] spoke to me every week, she was so patient and supportive of me. I finally have a safe roof over my head, working for custody, and getting back to some normalcy. I would not be here without the love and care from Believe New York's team! Thank you for all you guys do for people like me!

Client Stories

Client from Brooklyn, NY

“ Believe has an amazing program that has and can help you find all different types of programs and resources for all your needs... they have helped me with so much and help me to realize there is hope and kindness in this world, and I will be forever grateful. ”

Client from Bronx, NY*

“ I live in the Bronx in a group setting with other women with children. I got Believe's phone number from someone on a pantry line while trying to get food for myself and my children. I called August 22nd because I needed uniforms for my children to go back to school in September. I also needed school supplies. That September, a young lady by the name of [Client Advocate name] delivered it to the shelter for me. After that, three months later Christmas came and I was like, “can I ask for Christmas presents for my children? We have nothing for the holidays.” They really pulled through for me when I was in a bad place. I was able to receive presents for my four children, and the most important part is I had breast cancer so I needed certain items and support. I called my [Client Advocate] and told her. She made sure I got all that I needed that my doctor suggested for me to use. When my back was against the wall I called Believe and they made sure I got support with the essentials, sneakers, clothes, deodorant, toothpaste, toothbrush, coats, and hoodies. Whatever I needed, they would supply me with it. I am so blessed to have met some of these people that help us out! ”

Client Stories

Client from Brooklyn, NY

I'll be honest. One of the things that I found that would get me to feel more normal and calm me down when I was having panic attacks was just talking to another person. I am a very isolated person with bouts of anxiety and depression, and I have practically no friends to just go to or call on just to have a conversation. So when I read about the Open Space that Believe New York was offering I just signed up just to have a human on the other end of the phone who was listening. But they turned out to be much more than that! After talking to a [Client Advocate] from Believe New York I really felt as if I had someone who cared about my issues and who knew how to listen and respond with the emotional support we all need. I've had two different Client Advocates so far, and with both of them, I told them my stories and they learned more and more about my life and what I've been through with each session. And they've given me support and informed me about other resources I could try. But mostly they were just present with me and actively responded. Not only to what I was talking about at the moment, but they would bring up other facts and issues I told them about in the past, that related to what I was saying. That is what made me really feel listened to, which is so important to me! To know this person remembers what I said and is hearing my story and actively supporting my efforts to better myself. I guess that is the key word in Active Listener. I look forward to my weekly sessions. They make me feel grounded and more settled. Not only right after a session, but even just knowing that someone will be there to listen to me about my week or whatever I feel like bringing up at the moment. I have other counselors and psychological support, but Believe New York has added much more than I expected to my recovery so far, and I am very grateful! I highly recommend just signing up and giving them a try. I believe you will be happily surprised!

Volunteer Stories

Sarah Alzarooni, Client Advocate

Why did you Join Believe NY?

"I chose to volunteer with Believe New York because they help everyone. A lot of organizations focus only on specific groups, like women or the LGBTQ+ community, which is great, but I liked that Believe New York is open to anyone who needs support. Plus, I get to do so many different things like outreach, client advocacy, and research. There are always opportunities to get involved in different ways, including leadership roles."

The Impact on Me

"It has given me firsthand insight into the struggles people face and has deepened my understanding of everyone's unique challenges. Helping others has not only been rewarding but has also changed the way I see the world."

Future Plans

"I want to keep being involved with Believe New York and take on opportunities as they come. I'm also planning to apply for PhD programs in Clinical Psychology. I want to take everything I've learned here and use it in my future career, finding more ways to help people."

Madison Rudick, Client Advocate

Why did you Join Believe NY?

"After witnessing the countless challenges faced by New Yorkers in accessing basic resources and navigating complex systems, I knew I wanted to be part of the solution. Believe New York stood out because of their direct, person-centered approach and their commitment to addressing not just immediate needs, but also the underlying systemic barriers that perpetuate inequality. Their mission of empowering individuals while working towards broader social change deeply resonated with my personal values."

The Impact on Me

"My time with Believe New York has been transformative in understanding the depth of systemic challenges facing our communities. Through this work, I've built an extensive network of resources and partnerships with organizations across New York, enabling me to better serve those in need. Each client interaction has deepened my appreciation for the importance of accessible, comprehensive support systems and the critical role they play in creating positive change."

Future Plans

"As a future public interest attorney, I'm committed to staying deeply engaged with Believe New York through our research initiatives and policy work. I'll be taking an active role as a main author in research studies that document our impact and advocate for economic equity. While pursuing my legal career, I plan to maintain these connections, using my experiences and legal knowledge to help bridge the gap between grassroots community work and systemic policy change."

Sun Ju Lee, Community Advocate

Why did you Join Believe NY?

"When I returned home after the pandemic, New York City had changed significantly from the place I once knew. Many people were struggling with mental health challenges, and the atmosphere felt different in ways I had not expected. This shift made me want to make a meaningful impact, and when I learned about opportunities with Believe New York, I was eager to get involved and give back to the city where I grew up. As a Community Advocate, I bridge the gap between individuals in need and essential resources. In this role, I promote available resources, distribute informational materials, and encourage those facing hardships to seek support."

The Impact on Me

"Before working with Believe New York, I thought I had a good understanding of the challenges people faced. But as I became more involved with the community, I realized how little I truly knew. There were so many different stories, struggles, and circumstances I had never considered. The more I listened, the more I understood how broad the need for support was. Many people were looking for empathy, human connection, and someone who could genuinely acknowledge and listen to their struggles. The experiences I have had with Believe New York reshaped my understanding of what it means to serve others who are in need."

Future Plans

"Looking ahead, I plan to continue my work with Believe New York, expanding my outreach efforts and deepening my understanding of the unique challenges individuals in our community face. Beyond Believe New York, my ultimate career goal is to serve as a Clinical Psychologist on a military base, providing essential mental health interventions to military personnel. The experiences I have gained as a Community Advocate with Believe New York, along with my previous service in the Army, have reinforced my commitment to supporting those in need."

Ashley Fuentes, Advocate Liaison

Why did you Join Believe NY?

"I joined Believe NY out of a complete coincidence. Nicole and I met at a social gathering and as time passed she began to talk about the organization. Hearing what the mission was and hearing the impact that was being made across New York inspired me. I finally found the courage to ask her about volunteering and it has been a wonderful experience ever since. Hearing the stories of individuals' lives that were changed and then being a part of that was very humbling and rewarding. I love the growth in the organization as well as the partnerships that we have made that are equally as passionate about making a change."

The Impact on Me

"The impact that this role has had on me is that it gave me the confidence to see that I have the ability to make a change. I have heard some of the most heartbreakingly stories and it lights that fire that motivates me to keep on going. I am not afraid to reach out and call organizations for help anymore. I know that my phone call or email can determine the livelihood of another human being. At the moment that I am able to update the client with good news it brings peace to the both of us in knowing that the battle was worth it. Mentoring and leading at Believe New York has pushed me to stay on top of scheduling my personal life, work, and volunteer life. In the beginning I was very nervous about becoming a leader in the organization but I eventually fell into place. Mentoring other volunteers has shed importance on listening and communication. With efficient communication and understanding things are easier to achieve."

Future Plans

"My future plans with Believe New York are to keep supporting the team with its growth. Despite the difficulties that may present themselves, I am in it for the long run and I am in love with what we do. From community events to client interactions and research, there is always room for growth. Beyond Believe New York I am looking at applying to masters programs and eventually going for my doctorate."

Zhijiao Gao, Project Coordinator

Why did you Join Believe NY?

"The first time I heard about BNY was through my school email, and just by the first glance of the website, I was already impressed by the design and the flow of the processes for different client services. After joining this group of passionate and loving people, I further confirmed that I have made the right decision. We have extensive training and discussions about how to improve the life outcomes of each of our clients, and how we can grow together as a whole. It is always touching to see how each individual's efforts together can lead to long-term impacts. With BNY, I am hopeful that we are making the world a better place, step-by-step."

The Impact on Me

"Through volunteering, I am honored to support people in need and to see progresses made on different aspects of their lives: housing, mental health, jobs, etc. It is amazing how clients and advocates grow and learn together. Especially for myself, I have learned a lot with BNY. From organizational skills, client management skills, communication skills and teamwork, research skills to leadership skills, I have received so much guidance. I truly appreciate this learning opportunity, and I foresee a future with much more personal growth with BNY."

Future Plans

"As the newest project coordinator, and a client and community advocate, my future directions with BNY will contain more responsibilities, learning potential, and achievement. We are a very active organization with more and more ongoing activities and initiatives: fundraising and grants, Believe Network and the non-profit collaboration research paper, resource fairs and outreach, and so on. I look forward to continuing my dedication to these impactful projects and expanding their reach to more people. Personally, as a 1st year MA student in Clinical Psychology, I plan to apply to PhD programs and pursue psychology or research-related roles. I am confident that the experience and skill set I've gained at BNY will strengthen my candidacy for future opportunities."

What's Ahead

Resource Fairs with Community Partners

As requested by many clients and the community, we will have more resource fairs in the coming year, focused on our two most common concerns, mental health access and affordable housing. In collaboration with Stavros Niarchos Foundation Library, NYC Council Speaker Adams, Sprout Society, and many more, we aim to host these events, engage with the community, and provide direct access to resources on site.

Survey Results on Help-Seeking Experiences

We had great success with collecting data for our survey on help-seeking experiences. In the upcoming year, we will publish these results for community review and submit to academic journals. We will apply our findings to our programs and work to educate community leaders and partners on how to better support people experiencing poverty, mental health concerns, and domestic abuse.

The Believe Network

The Believe Network is an exciting new initiative designed to foster collaboration among nonprofits, community-based organizations, and resource providers across sectors. Using the Collective Impact model, this network will have two distinct branches focused on improving economic equity and mental health. As we transition to a stronger role in referral services, we will guide clients to the most suitable providers within the networks, increasing access to tailored support. Beyond direct referrals, the Believe Network will serve as a hub for collaboration, bringing members together through events, workshops, and shared initiatives to drive institutional change in the NYC metro area. By leveraging the strengths of multiple organizations, we aim to create greater efficiency, higher capacity, and lasting impact, ultimately scaling support and improving life outcomes for the communities we serve.

Partnership with UNITE US

We've partnered with Unite Us, a technology company with an affordable referral and client management system. This partnership will enhance our ability to efficiently manage resource referrals, streamline client support services, and strengthen our "Believe Network."

Summary

Through our range of services, projects, and events, we address immediate needs, support and foster emotional well-being, and empower individuals and communities to ensure lasting change and resilience.
